4. Work Through Agenda
   a. Organizational Exchange & Announcements:
      Chris Eddy – Center for Global Health Systems, Management and Policy – gave background information about the Global Health MPH program. He explained is role as placing students in the MPH in practice placements. For more information contact Chris at 937-258-5548 or christopher.eddy@wright.edu. The MPH program has done away with the cohort idea of having all students start their practicum at the same. Students can enroll anytime to get started in their practicum. For information about practice placement visit:
http://www.med.wright.edu/mph/curriculum#practice

Sister Rose Morand – Retired Social Worker – is working with a Restorative Justice Program that works with women in the Montgomery County jail.

Bette Sydelko – WSU University Libraries – explains how she has access to information from the National Library of Medicine. Medline Plus is a new website to get medical information. Bette will be at the Kettering Health Fair on July 30.

Mary Ann Drewry – WSU-SOPP Ellis Institute – new clinical training has started with 19 pre-doctoral and 3 interns with several returning from last year as volunteers. They are trying to get the new Medicaid limitations that went into effect.

Marianne Urban – Dayton Public Schools – schools are still on summer break. Ten nursing positions have been lost due to budget cuts. The open registration is being accepted downtown or people could check the website. Marianne is planning to retire in December.

Doris Edelmann – Montgomery County Job & Family Service (CSB) – Independent Scholars Network program will be starting at Wright State University and some of the community colleges. The ISN program will provide college students who were in foster care and will give them a place to stay during the summer and other breaks. The young people can enter the program in December or June. WSU is attempting to provide a round services for this population. Wright State partnered with Clark State so students can take their first 2 years at Clark State but still in program at WSU and live on campus at WSU. Sinclair students can take one class at WSU and the rest at Sinclair and the students can still live on campus at WSU.

Mark Feighery – CareSource, Montgomery County Care is a limited health care program for the uninsured in Montgomery County. This program is for individuals who don’t qualify for Medicaid but are under the federal poverty level. Montgomery County was about to allocate one million dollars for the first year and two million for the second year. To be eligible for Montgomery County Care: have to live in Montgomery County, be under the poverty level and not qualify for Medicaid. Applications can be found at the Health Center or by contacting Mark Feighery 937-531-2969 or visit the website at www.montgomerycountycare.com. The current national poverty levels are: http://aspe.hhs.gov/poverty/11poverty.shtml

Donerik Black – UHS – focuses on 3 major areas; workforce development, prescription medication, and Wellness to Go. Workforce development provides services to children through young engagement and enrichment. UHS will provide vouchers for prescriptions for people who are under the poverty level. The wellness to go program is to help keep people out of the emergency room by offering testing. This program covers 8 counties.

Nina Carter – Miami Valley Child Development Centers – is a premier child development center in a three county radius. A program called Edison Taking off to Success (Tots) graduated 36 families in a 9 week program on child development, health and safety and about activities they can do within the home using household item to encourage the child to learn. There is a similar program on the east side called Ruskin Tots.

Monica Updike – Dayton Metropolitan Housing Authority – everything is on idle due to budget as positions are not being filled as people are leaving. The housing choice voucher is closed and people are not allowed to move. People are only allowed to move if there is a safety or health issue. DMHA will examine the house to determine if families need to move. Public housing continues to buy a lot of properties. People can still apply for housing at 400 Wayne Ave.

Sheila Johnson - Parity Inc – is seeking mentors for the DPS for 7-8 graders.

Deane Roberts – St. Luke Missionary Baptist Church – is seeking health and wellness choices to bring back to the church. On October 9, 2011 they will be hosting a health & wellness fair at the church.

Sharon Becker - Good Samaritan Health Ministries – announced a workshop on August 25 and 26, 2011 at Madison Lakes Learning and Conference Center, called From Vision to Practice...Growing an Effective Congregational health Ministry. The registration form can be found online at goodsam.org. The deadline to register is August 18, 2011.

Nancy Brown – community member – is no longer the president of Neighborhood Leadership Institute. They are currently looking for a meeting location and how to bring in the graduates ideas into the community.

Jennifer Boyd – Public Health Dayton and Montgomery County – the assessment of each of the department is still continuing. The 23rd annual Westtown Health Fair will be hosted on September 10, 2011 from 10-2 at the Westtown Shopping Center.

b. Center for Healthy Communities Report:
Kate reported Women’s Advocacy Action Network received the Health Promotion Award this year.

Nina gave a background about Women’s Advocacy Action Network (WAAN) and the WAAN in Dayton. They were started through the Children’s Defense Fund. In December 2010, the first community conversation was held at the Dayton Cultural Center and a follow up was in March 2011. WAAN is focused on 4 areas and they can all be touched on during one project: education, financial literacy, policy and advisory. WAAN does not have a base budget, funding is done through donations and collaborations in the community.
