Breaking the Bank: The Rising Costs of Health Care

Wednesday, October 26, 2005
The David H. Ponitz Sinclair Center, Dayton, Ohio

Health Systems Management
Wright State University
School of Medicine

Conference Overview

The 6th Annual HSM Conference will showcase a keynote presentation on “The Rising Costs of Health Care” and four panelists who will present on related themes. Two separate breakout sessions will follow the panel session, which will allow participants to interact with the speakers of their choice. Key points from the breakout sessions will be presented to all participants during the Evaluation & Wrap Up. After all the key points have been presented, discussion, questions and opinions are welcome!

Conference Goal

This conference is targeted at physicians, nurses, multidisciplinary health care workers, public health workforce, employers, insurance/managed care industry, and the health care consumer. The goal of this conference is to increase your knowledge about the reasons for rising health care costs in order to better understand the root causes of these costs and develop improved and creative strategies for managing them.

Learning Objectives

The participants will be able to:

- ❖ Identify factors contributing to the rising costs of health care
- ❖ Understand how paying for outcomes affects quality of care
- ❖ Recognize how changing demographics affects employer health care costs
- ❖ Identify ways that systems innovation can eliminate waste and reduce cost
- ❖ Discuss how disparities impact health care costs
