Using the guide:

Find specific resources for answering questions about medical topics
MEDICINE	EVIDENCE BASED MEDICINE	HEALTH STATISTICS	TESTS & MEASUREMENTS	MOBILE RESOURCES	RESIDENCY INFO	CITING YOUR SOURCES
PUBLIC HEALTH	REFWORKS	INTERLIBRARY LOAN	A-TO-Z E-JOURNALS	LITERATURE SEARCH REQUEST	COPYRIGHT	UL FACT SHEET	CORE SCHOLAR
SCHOLARLY COMMUNICATION	HISTORY OF MEDICINE	HORIZONS IN MEDICINE

Each white tab leads you to more specific resources like RefWorks or the A-to-Z E-Journals list or to services the library offers like the interlibrary loan service or a literature search request form.

The UL factsheet is handy when you are first learning what is available to you.

About RefWorks

RefWorks is a web-based citation management service.

- Keeps your references organized
- Works with Microsoft Word when you are writing papers and need to cite using a particular format
- Creates your own “personal” database of references

More info: <http://libraries.wright.edu/refworks/>

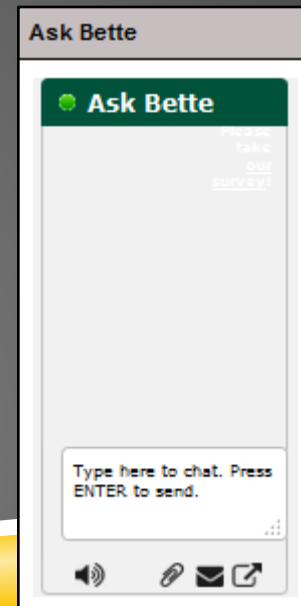

Final tips

- In databases such as PubMed and Web of Science, check access to the fulltext of the article by using the “FindIt” link resolver.

- On the far right of the Medicine Research Guide is a “chat” box. Quick way to get an answer when online.
